Hello, Looking for relatives suppose to be in the area many years ago. It is my grandfather's sister. Bertha Mckay married to an Ollie Johnson. After Ollis' death she married a Herbert Fullenwidder. The spelling may be off on Herbert's last name. She had a daughter, Jane, married to a Toby Scironi. again the spelling of the last name is in question.They have a ranch near Graconi, Nev. Thanks for any help you can give me. Karen Carter- kkccarter@aol.com.

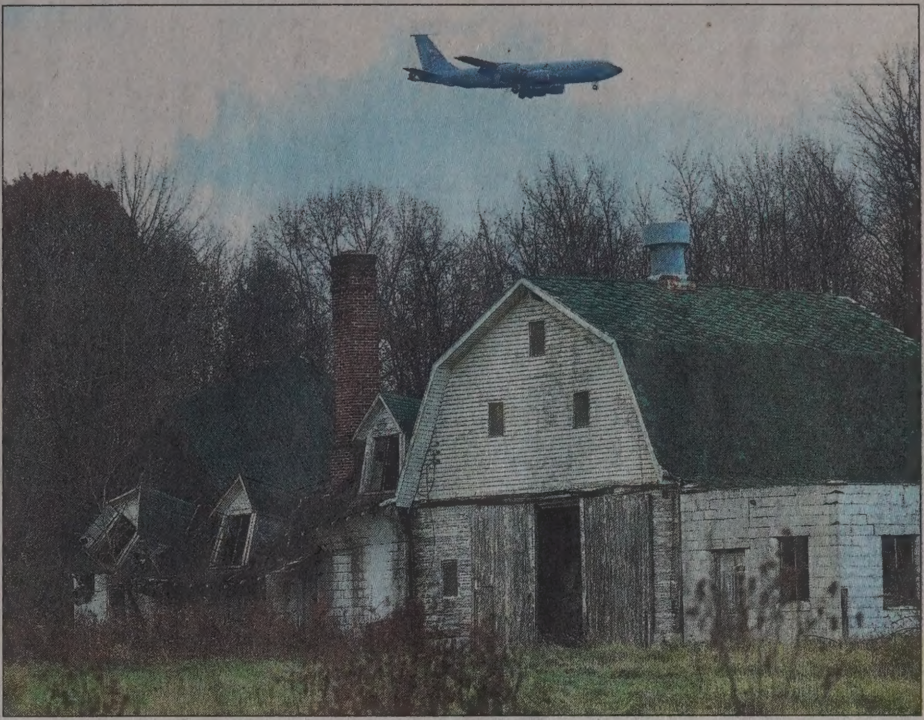
Historic circus structure set for demolition

BY CARSON GERBER
CNHI NEWS INDIANA



Kelly Lafferty Gerber | CNHI News Indiana

A KC-135 Stratotanker flies over the Terrell Jacobs barns near U.S. 31 and Indiana 218 West on Tuesday on its way to the Grissom Air Reserve base. The Terrell Jacobs barns will soon be torn down in preparation for limited-access U.S. 31.

PERU — The Indiana Department of Transportation is demolishing an historic but dilapidated circus barn along U.S. 31, in preparation for making the highway a limited-access freeway.

INDOT earlier this year purchased the land that formerly housed the Terrell Jacobs Circus Winter Quarters, located on the east side of U.S. 31 near the intersection of Indiana 218 West.

The property was placed on the Register of Historic Places in 2012 after Indiana Landmarks, a nonprofit that seeks to protect unique and historically significant properties, placed the Terrell Jacobs barns on its 10 most endangered landmarks list.

Now, just six years after being listed on the National Register, one of the barns is being demolished.

Nichole Hacha-Thomas, media relations director for the INDOT Fort Wayne District, said the barn that used to house elephants is being torn down "in the interest of public safety." The structure is deteriorated and the most of the roof has caved in.

The move marks the end of one of the most unique pieces of circus history in the country that highlights Peru's deep connection to the big top.

The history of the property dates back to 1939, when Terrell Jacobs bought the land and built a barn to house the "strange beasts" he had collected, including tigers, lions and leopards, according to an article published in 1941 in the Peru Republican.

By that time, Jacobs was known around the world as "The Lion King" and considered the greatest wild-animal trainer of all time by the circus community.

He performed with the biggest circuses in the world, including Ringling Bros., Barnum & Bailey, and put on a record-setting show involving 52 lions, tigers and leopards in one arena. At one point, Jacobs had the largest wild-animal act in the world.

Jacobs later built another barn on his Miami County land to house and train elephants, along with living quarters for his circus staff and a slaughterhouse to provide meat for his cats. The barns also housed hippos and monkeys. Eventually, the property became the winter home to some of the country's leading circuses.

Terrell Jacobs and his wild-animal act is featured on this circus poster.

Over the years, the barns that played a unique behind-the-scenes role in thousands of national circus shows became unused and idle for more than 30 years.

After time, the buildings fell into decay and became the target of vandals, while inside sat cages decorated with colorful hand-painted murals, a riding ring, a hippo tank and old bunks for performers and staff.

Paul Hayden, director of Indiana Landmark's northeast field office, said INDOT is now clearing out and collecting any historic items from the property and giving them to the International Circus Hall of Fame, located east of Peru off of Indiana 124.

Although the elephant barn has been pegged for demolition in the near future, the fate of the other structures is still pending.

INDOT's Hacha-Thomas said the state currently is going through an historical and environmental review process to determine an appropriate course of action, as well as timing, for the removal of the remaining buildings.

But it may not be all bad news for Peru's historic circus properties.

When the state uses taxpayer money to significantly alter or demolish a historic property, the move triggers a "mitigation process" to make up for the loss of that history.

Hayden said that process is happening now between INDOT and the Indiana Department of Historic Preservation and Archeaology. He said the hope is the state will provide more funding to help repair the other historic circus barns located at the International Circus Hall of Fame, which used to be the winter quarters for some of the largest circuses in the world.

"The people at the Circus Hall of Fame are doing great things right now at their property," Hayden said "... If INDOT could help with that, that would be a tradeoff we would support."

The move by INDOT to purchase the historic property comes as the state pushes forward with making U.S. 31 a limited-access highway. The property is located near a busy intersection just north of Grissom Air Reserve Base, and has a small entrance road that provides the only access to the barns.

Hacha-Thomas said purchasing the land will allow INDOT to control access to the highway in the future.

Gov. Eric Holcomb announced in September that two intersections on U.S. 31 in Miami County are set to be transformed into full-on interchanges as part of a new $190 million plan that will continue to turn the highway into a freeway.

3 fatally shot, 2 critically hurt

FORT WAYNE — Fort Wayne police say three people were fatally shot and two others critically wounded overnight in the northeastern Indiana city.

Officers who were called to a home on Fort Wayne's south side about 10:30 p.m. Thursday found four victims inside and one outside. Police spokesman Jason Anthony tells The Journal Gazette that two males and a female victim were pronounced dead at scene, while two male victims were taken to a hospital in critical condition.

Authorities have not released the victims' names and police said late Thursday that they had no suspects in the shootings. About 20 relatives and friends of the victims gathered across the street from the home, which was cordoned off by caution tape. The house is located immediately south of Towles Intermediate School.

Girl's family sues over research

WEST LAFAYETTE — An Indianapolis girl's family is suing Purdue University, contending she suffered "substantial emotional trauma" during federally-funded research that was halted last year.

The research was designed to examine the effects of sodium intake on adolescents' blood pressure and cholesterol. Purdue ended the project that included a camp at its West Lafayette campus in July 2017 amid reports of sexual harassment and inadequate camp supervision.

EPA remedial project manager Katherine Thomas says contractors could begin the installation next week as part of an ongoing study of the extent of contamination and potential risks to residents.

County faces choice on co

The question: Reject or accept $444,500 bid?

BY KEN DE LA BASTIDE
THE HERALD BULLETIN

ANDERSON — Replacing the elevators at the Madison County Government Center is leaving the county commissioners with a tough decision.

Earlier this year a consultant recommended that the two elevators, installed when the Government Center first opened in 1973, be replaced.

On Nov. 8, the commissioners received two bids for the replacement of the elevators. Local company American Elevator submitted a bid of $394,500 and Indianapolis-based company Thyssenkrupp Elevator bid $444,500. Those bids were taken under advisement.

County attorney Jeff Graham said the bid from American Elevator didn't comply with the required documentation.

He said the bid from Thyssenkrupp Elevator exceeded the engineer's estimated cost of replacement at $400,000 by 10 percent.

Graham said the commissioners had three options. They could reject the bids, rebid the project or accept the bid from Thyssenkrupp Elevator.

"I did not look at the technical portions of the bid," h said.

Graham said both bi indicated the replacement the elevators would completed within 2 calendar days.

Kent Odom, pr erty manager Madison County, said the consultant has not reviewed the technical aspects of the two bids.

He said there is a chance with the tariff dispute taking place between the United States and China that the replacement cost could increase because most of the elevator parts are manufactured in China.

"We put it out for bid," Com-

Steffanie Owens
"My thoughts are to award the bid"

Hi All, I am travelling for a couple of months and this laptop should help me stay up with all of you. I finally got the website online. It is very basic at this time because I just ran out of time. I cannot make any changes or additions until I return. You may still email me regarding it or post to this site. The url is:

Please note that there is only one vowel in my last name. I have lots more things to add later. Let me know what you think. Be nice now as I cry easily. Pat Bolln une 27, 2000 ? I never imagined that I would talk to more Fullenwiders than probably anyone else 'ound. What a wonderful family you are. I have totally fallen in love with you. I have to say that when I started, ıad no idea how to research genealogy. I just called you and wrote down what you said. It became this huge ;saw puzzle that very slowly began to fit together. I knew nothing about documentation for every piece of formation. I learned about that much later and am better now. I did not have a computer for a long time, just ındreds of pages of family group sheets that I would fill out for each family. I now have a computer that can tell e how you are related to anyone on the list. I am really just the editor for this project. You have been the searchers. Please email me any corrections, additions, etc. that need to be made. If you gave me information, ıd it is not here, email or write me again. I will change your information. If you have biographies or pictures at could be included, please contact me. Aloha, Pat ctober 20, 2001 -- Wow, so much time has passed. Sorry it has taken me so long to get the Fullenwider Family enealogy back online. I am finally learning how to do it myself but please be patient as it gets very confusing for meone born in the 40's. We covered 12 states on our vacation last fall and had a great time getting to meet some ore of you. Thank you so much for your warm hospitality. Several of you have even made it over here to awaii. That was really great.

ɔu will note on the website that personal information is not included for living people for privacy reasons. I do ıve the dates, etc. that you sent me in my files for those people. Thanks to you who have called or emailed your formation as each new wee one is born or great grandma passes into the next life. We do not want to lose track anyone now that this huge family is linked up. I really appreciate your help in this undertaking. It has taken ousands of hours but was far more fun than the dishes which I still have not washed.

ınuary 10, 2004 -- Since we were away from home 7 months this year, the website got put on hold. Sorry to keep ʼu waiting so long. About 1000 more names have been added which now includes four spellings. I want to let ʼu know again that all this information came mostly from the family and from records found on the internet. See e Resources page for more details. There may be many things that need correcting, so let me know.

any of you have changed your email addresses and mailing addresses. Please let me know that also so I can ep you informed of updates. Also please tell all family members about this website. I know there are a great any that I do not know of, and they may be just the one who can link up more families.

oha, Pat
